Mr. Fack Ruly!

I am a keen autograph collector, and as such I would very much have appreciated having a little greeting from you.

Of course I fully took nart in those tragical events at Dallas during the late November Lays - in the newspapers and over the radio and TV. And I have come to ask myself a question - a question, which I do hope to be answered by you personally: What do you think and feel about those November events now afterwards?

when I at present ask you if you will kindly send me little personal greeting, it is

THE EXAMINED One Way of Looking

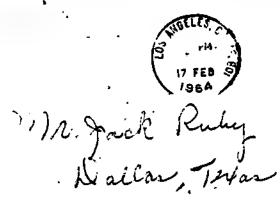

One Way of Looking at Everyday Manners and Morals

Some people who call themselves Catholics have been getting away with murder and it's time someone blew the whistle on them. Secretly they've been rooting for Notre Dame to lose football games (and succeeding too well). I wouldn't have mentioned this at all except that some of the same people refused to watch the Singing Nun when she appeared on the Ed Sullivan show. What kind of Catholic Action do they call that?

The forthcoming trial of Jack Ruby in Dallas is likely to raise a lot of sticky questions. It might, for example, prove nearly impossible to impanel a jury of people without preconceptions about his guilt or innocence. Most of us watched the killing on television and in our discussions most likely came to one conclusion or another. The traditional acreening of prospective jurors may take a long time.

The attorneys for Ruby have already implied that temporary insanity" will be his defense. In a forthcoming book, "The Right To Life" (Holt, Rinehart and Winston), Norman St. John-Stevas makes an interesting distinction between British and American jurisprudence in treating the insanity defense. English law distinguishes "insanity" caused by external causes from that due to internal causes and usually accepts only the latter as a legitimate defense. In other words, English courts believe that only a genuine emotional disturbance "justifies" antisocial behavior (A man who flies into a rage because of external circumstances has himself to blame and should face the consequences. Munder the circumstances, Ruby can be glad he's being tried in Dallas and not in London. , If and when he is acquitted of the killing (and from here that seems probable), Ruby's career should flourish; guest appearances on TV programs (Will our mystery guest please sign in?), memoirs for magazines engaged in frantic circulation battles, perhaps even an anthology of his favorite patriotic speeches. It should far surpass the vaudeville appearances made by the Lindbergh kidnaping principals after Bruno Hauptmann had been condemned to the electric chair.

Maybe Jack could get Madame Nhu to team up with him. They ought to get along fine.

Mr. Jack Ruby c/c Hon. Tom Howard Attorney-at-Law 1934 Main St. Dallas, Texas

Dear Mr. Ruby:

Since writing, and before mailing my letter marked No. 1 (so marked that you may easily distinguish it for first reading from this second one, marked No. 2), on second thought I remember hearing you, on television, wonder "why such a man as President Kennedy should be lost to us." Whe can say exactly! Perhaps his soul shines over the werld today and is, by being out of the physical body, more potent to eventually carry to a successful which case he, in a very real sense, is not lest to us. In fact, is it not possible (and who can deny it with certitude) that all creative spirits of with God in bringing about favorable conditions on earth, even to the gentle wery fact stands as a factor in the acceleration of evolution which now appears to be taking place throughout most of the world.

In speaking of the possibilities of continuing an unfinished mission after departure from this world, it is well to remember those majestic words of the great Victor Hugo who says:

Por half a century I have been writing my thoughts in prose, verse, history, philosophy, drame, romance, satire, ede, song. I have tried all; but I feel I have not said the thousandth parties what is in me. When I go down to the grave, I can say that so many others, 'I have finished my day's work; but seamnot say 'I have finished my life.' My day's work will begin again next morning. The tomb is not a blind with the dawn."

These words bear out Herbert Spencer's prediction that thought can never monopolize Consciousness. Consciousness as an Inifinite Spiritual substance looks down on Wind and Thought and Body as Matter and declares; I possess you both, Mind and Body. You are my instruments through which I express my Will. It is that which affirms: "I think, therefore I am." Consciousness is eternal and Infinite, and, therefore, is warranted in this bold manner to its finite instruments, Mind and Matter, both of the latter being material in the sense that neither is, as it were, Pure Consciousness - Pure Spirit; hence you can readily see the wisdom of Spencer's prediction, and can also understand Victor Hugo's inspired words already quoted when he indicates that there is no end to intuitive thinking, backed by resson, which former flows from Consciousness - Spirit - God, Man's by reason, which former flows from Consciousness - Spirit - God. being is at all times superimposed on Consciousness and so partakes of Its Holiness and Blory, Its Peace, Joy and Bliss, in proportion as he assimllates It into his being through meditation, proper discipline, and true living. "Discipline here means, a well ordered life, and does not have reference to ascetism . There is no gulf, no dividing line between man and God, therefore, we have direct access to him at all tir

Keep your chin up. This toowill pars, and your well be happy again. Our law calls it a dirty word, but it was retaliation. President Kennedy said, "any sneak attack Would be met with Masseve Retaliation." A sneak attack evided our Presidents life, and we retaliated. I want to write things to cheer you, but when I think of the torture you are going the torture you are going are a brave man. To not

And now returning to a subject of a different tone, another thought occurred to me after writing my first letter, and this is about the ability of the Science of Psychiatry or Psychology or Neurology (all of which are comparatively new sciences) to determine the cause of an emotional "blackout" in any case other than those relating to physical brain damage (and perhaps this is, in itself, far from being a perfect science/at alliets ramifications), as being beyond present human limitations. As a single instance of mental "blackout" not due to brain damage, the phenomenon of somnobulism (sleep walking) might be cited. This sort of blackout, commonly referred to as "sleep" is certainly due strictly to an emotional state in which the mind is totally unaware of any sort of movement or action taken while in a state of somnobulism. It has been said by some of the world's greatest thinkers and students that emotions, as potent thoughts, are continually at work in the subconscious mind; so it would seem from the above (and other instances that could be given) that emotions in complex limited man do actually exist in a way az independently of thought, or we might say, precede thought as its potentiality, the time interval between the two being in the ordinary case during waking hourspiring almost instantaneous. These buried emotions - buried in the subconscious, are capable, under great emotional stress, of asserting themselves in some sort of unconscious action. This fact would tend to bear out the contention or yourself and that, of your attorneys, that the action for which you stand charged was committed under great emotional stress, thus resulting in mental blackout.

Considering you are capable of extreme emotional states, it is easy to see how this happened when we take into consideration the emotional weight under which you were laboring as a result of that dreadful tragedy in Dallas. It is said by some great thinkers and students that the human body is compared of close to 6,000 known subtle wave movements (not to mention unless sees), and that these waves have a direct bearing on the mind. Man is subject wonderfully made - made as Shakespears in his great wisdom say; where stuff as dreams are made of.

What I have written in these two letters will give you something to think about while you are physically inactive. You perhaps already have a pretty good idea of all these matters, but you may find herein a new light reflected on them from a different angle. And I find it is always well to endeavor to see things from all possible angles.

Again closing with the wishes already expressed, I am

Mr. Jack Ruby Dallas, Texas

Dear Mr. Kuby:

This letter comes to you from one who is interested in your welfare as relating to the matter now before you.

From the very beginning, not for one moment have I failed to understand your deep grief and utter shock upon hearing of the assassination of our Beloved President.

Besides your own emotions I am well aware you also suffered, as did all of us, under the weight or world-emotions filled with excitement, grief and shook. The whole thing was like walking in a mightmare on a dark night. You being possessed of a supersensitive nature, the whole thing produced for you a mental blackout - that is, atumned your mental powers so as to bring them to a complete standatill, which, for the time being, naturally rendered the act for which you now stand the time being, naturally rendered the act for which you now stand charged absolutely irrational - without thought or motive or desire of any kind, all of which was impossible in the condition into which you were emotionally throws.

Also I can well understand how you must have felt at the loss of our National Leader, who was not just minan, but a man possessed of all that is capable of lifting hearts to high levels of admination and love. You held an ideal, and ideals hold great sway over us all. They are born of the Spirit, and we are forever seeking some sort of shape in which takeleths these ideals. Not only for you, but also for many others the light over, President Kennedy gave shape to great ideals. He was a mile deep spiritual insight, coupled with great leadership ability. The deep spiritual insight, coupled with great leadership ability. The deep spiritual insight, command of English was masterly ground and a charwing personality. His command of English was masterly and his thinking itself was so compact, that is, contained so much substance, that one could hardly believe that a person of his age could, in so short time, have grown mentally to such great demensions. His mental horison was wide enough to take in the situation of the whole world, economically, politically, and otherwise, and his heart was equally expansive. Is there any wonder that, at his departure from this life, such depression and shock, deep emotions and grief swept over the world like a dark mist, as we all had occasion to wite seet. It has not entirely cleared yet for those who felt it deeply, and perhaps never will; there will always be left a certain sadness and deep feeling of loss.

In closing, let me say that although I am not acquainted with your personally, yet I have, as you will see from the above, somewhat of an insight into your real feelings and the sad occasion which produced them, and have never at any time felt that what you did under extreme emotions, and for which you now stand charged, was otherwise than under the circumstances above stated. Therefore, you can understand why I am greatly concerned to see you came out of this difficulty in the very best possible fashion. And I want you also to know that my
